Sababa Water Partners with Feeding San Diego

Sababa Water donates one meal for every bottle sold in San Diego

San Diego, CA – December 13, 2017 – Today, Feeding San Diego, is announcing a partnership with Sababa Water. The water company is donating one meal for each water bottle sold in the San Diego area to Feeding San Diego to relieve hunger.

“We are thankful to Sababa Water for their commitment to hunger-relief,” said Vince Hall, CEO of Feeding San Diego. “Their support will help us serve healthy and nutritious food to the nearly 400,000 children, families and seniors in San Diego County struggling with hunger.”

Sababa Water is available to purchase at Food4Less, Albertsons, Vons, and Pavilions in San Diego. To find a store near you, visit www.sababawater.com.

“Sababa means ‘everything will be okay’. Many people don’t realize that there are kids in their own backyard that are going to bed hungry. They need food. They need comfort. They need to know that everything is going to be okay,” said Jonathan Stone, Co-Founder of Sababa Water. “That is the Sababa mission. Making childhood hunger a thing of the past. Giving back by doing something that you would already do normally, buying bottled water.”
