ASKING FOR HELP ISN'T EASY, BUT HELPING CAN BE

The holidays are supposed to be a time of togetherness and joy, but this year is different. Beginning in March, a health crisis became an economic crisis, an education crisis, and a food crisis. The COVID-19 pandemic has shown us how fragile the world is and exposed how vulnerable we are. Thousands of people across San Diego County have turned to Feeding San Diego, many for the first time. Asking for help isn't easy, but helping can be. Feeding San Diego needs your help, now more than ever. Every dollar donated helps provide nutritious meals to children, families, and seniors facing hunger.

THANKSGIVING MEALS FOR FAMILIES AT FIVE SITES
Just in time for the Thanksgiving holiday, Feeding San Diego is proud to distribute Thanksgiving meals at five of our distribution sites in partnership with our vendor Top Notch Catering and Chef Ricky Fierro.

Over 1,400 Thanksgiving meal kits will be provided for free to those in need, focusing on the children and their families that pick up from the organization’s Summer Food Service Program. “This year has been challenging for so many. Hopefully, these Thanksgiving meal kits will help make the holidays a little easier,” said Feeding San Diego Director of Programs, Dana Henderson. “We are incredibly thankful to our partner Top Notch Catering and Chef Ricky Fierro who are helping to give hope and share joy with families in critical need this year.”

GIVINGTUESDAY MATCH MADE POSSIBLE BY DAVID C. COPLEY FOUNDATION

On GivingTuesday, December 1, donors who give to Feeding San Diego will be matched dollar for dollar by the David C. Copley Foundation, up to $50,000. Your generosity will help Feeding San Diego sustain hundreds of drive-through distributions throughout the county, including emergency regional distributions and rural mobile pantries, maintain increased food and resources to 170 agency partners operating hunger-relief programs in local neighborhoods, collaborate with school districts and community partners to maximize services for children and families in crisis throughout the region, and educate the community about available resources and work to destigmatize food assistance.

COMMUNITY RESEARCH CENTER’S HOLIDAY BASKETS TO SUPPORT 1,100 FAMILIES

Feeding San Diego is a proud partner of the Community Resource Center (CRC) and happy to support their 38th annual Holiday Basket event. Via a drive-thru, contactless distribution on Saturday, December 5, the CRC Holiday Baskets event will provide 1,100 participating households with a variety of gift boxes that include non-perishable food, fresh produce, a blanket, and family presents. The holidays are always brighter when forces of good band together. Thank you CRC for bringing joy to our neighbors in need this holiday season.
